Dear Sirs,

I am sure everyone is hammering you guys over the Microsoft settlement. My main concern is that the way Microsoft wants to pay their debt to society is through a giant sales campaign to the schools. I am so tired of people in Washington doing crappy jobs on every front, then saying they are doing it for the good of the CHILDREN. This is the wrong settlement for America. Have their executives go out and pick up trash if they want to do some real good things, but do not let them infiltrate the schools with sales pitches.

Thank you,

Rick Girdner,
